The Wedgwood Society of New South Wales

A Wedgwood appreciation group of real enthusiasts. Members collect all kinds of Wedgwood, not just the blue and white jasper which is, to many people, the only Wedgwood.

Wedgwood can be old—Josiah Wedgwood started his own business in 1759. Wedgwood can be modern and made recently.

The only thing that matters is that you enjoy collecting, owning and discovering more about your pieces.

Activities

The Wedgwood Society holds regular meetings in the Sydney area with guest speakers, as well as speakers from among our own members, talking about various aspects of Wedgwood and Wedgwood collecting.

A regular newsmagazine, The Medallion, with notes and views and interesting articles on Wedgwood related matters, is produced for members. Anyone interested in Wedgwood is welcome to join, wherever you live.

Other activities include social functions, lunch meetings and exhibitions, all arranged by members for members and guests.

The Wedgwood Society of NSW has as its symbol the Sydney Cove Medallion first made in 1789 using clay sent by Captain Arthur Phillip to Sir Joseph Banks and passed on to Josiah Wedgwood. Only eleven examples are known to have survived.
